Blue Cash card is loaded with features and savings.

by Derek Lenehan

The American Express Blue Cash credit card is the ideal credit card for today's world. Its rewards and cash back features are profitable for all that use the card, and it has a massive credit line of up to $100,000. Knowing if you qualify is an easy process, with online application approval being decided upon in less than one minute. All financial and practical reasons aside, it's sleek blue and silver design is enough to attract consumers from all walks of life.

The most interesting feature of the card - and perhaps the most important in current times - is the 5% cash back awarded to card holders from gasoline purchases. With gas prices striking record highs and threatening to rise even more, the American Express Blue Cash credit card can ease the financial squeeze Americans feel each time they refill their automobiles. If a card holder used their car conservatively, filling up their 15 gallon gas tank once a week, at an average price of $2.49 per gallon, the American Express card could return nearly $100 cash back in just one year, only on gasoline purchases.

The American Express Blue Cash credit card also offers up to 5% on a variety of everyday purchases, including online purchases that are covered with 100% customer protection. No customers are held responsible for a single fraudulent purchase made with the card.

CoolBlueOffers is another perk of using the American Express Blue Cash credit card. CoolBlueOffers is a bonus and savings program that assists the card holders. The only requirement to receive the bonuses and savings is to use the Blue Cash credit card at merchants that millions of people shop at already.

The Blue Cash card comes with a variety of service and insurance features. Customer Service can be reached at a number printed on the back of the card, a person can view their account anytime online, and if a person were to even make a mistake such as keeping an item they did not want longer than the merchant's return policy covers, American Express will refund the purchase up to $300.

These are only the tip of the iceberg, which is the fascinating part of the American Express Blue Cash credit card. It has more features than most consumers currently would know what to do with. The only way to fully explore all of them is to apply today, and see what you're missing with your bland old credit card.
